“Smart” supply chain

SOURCE: Company data as of December 2011

Comments

- Supply chain model hinging on direct delivery supplemented by storage warehouses for imported and private label products and cross-docking facilities
- The model brings a number of advantages to the business:
 - Availability of a wide product assortment, tailored to local consumer preferences
 - Low inventory level as products go straight onto shelves upon delivery
 - Few out-of-stock issues as time lags between order, delivery and availability on the shelves are short
 - Supports faster roll-out, as openings are less constrained by availability of own logistics infrastructure
 - Minimizes management time and financial resources spent, as compared to running own logistics
 - Cost of warehousing and delivery born by suppliers
- Proven track record of operations in all regions of O'KEY's presence
- Higher stocks turnover and better cash operating cycle
- Plans to expand storage capacity for imported and private label products by setting up additional cross-docking facilities as the density of stores increases in each city
- Currently O'KEY plans to outsource logistics facilities and concentrate its resources in retail operations
